NEW CHURCH
TO
OUR LADY OF LOURDES,
I.R. GLOUCESTER STREET, DUBLIN
A Temporary Edifice has been erected on the site secured for the New Church, which is badly needed in this locality.
It is already crowded, and the Shrine has aroused a deep spirit of Devotion to Our Lady of Lourdes, with most beneficial results among the people.
The Accommodation afforded by the Temporary Structure is inadequate. The Administrator strongly appeals to the Catholics of Dublin and of Ireland for the means to undertake the building of the New Church. The district being one of the most densely populated and poorest in the city little pecuniary aid can be expected from it.
The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass will be offered EACH WEEK for Subscribers.
Subscriptions will be thankfully received by any of the Clergy, or by Very Rev. RICHARD HOWDEN, Adm.,

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—A depression off N.W. Ireland appears to be moving north-westwards, and will cause higher temperature and unsettled weather somewhat fairer over the British Isles.

Ireland.—Moderate S. or S.W. winds, fair generally, some passing showers, moderate temperature.

The New Ministry.

The official list of the new Ministry is published to-day. With one exception (perhaps, two—but the appointment of a new Chief Secretary for Ireland is always a gamble), the changes may be described as cautious. The leading members of the late Government have been retained in office, with some shifting of places. Mr. Balfour remains at the Foreign Office, where, in view of the Peace Conference, his services are indispensable. Mr. Montagu remains to complete his projected reforms in India. Sir Albert Stanley, Mr. Fisher, and Mr. Prothero (who gets a peerage) retain the offices which they filled with acknowledged success in the late Government. Mr. Bonar Law relinquishes the Exchequer in order that he may give his whole time to the leadership of the House of Commons. He is succeeded by Mr. Austen Chamberlain, who was Chancellor of the Exchequer in Mr. Balfour's Government from 1903 to 1905. Viscount Milner becomes Colonial Secretary, and Mr. Walter Long goes to the Admiralty. The Attorney-General, Sir Frederick Smith, crowns his remarkable and controversial career with the Lord Chancellorship. Two Labour members, Mr. Barnes and Mr. Roberts, have important places in the new Government; and we are glad to see that it includes a clever Irishman and graduate of Dublin University—Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, who is promoted to the Parliamentary Under-Secretaryship for Foreign Affairs. Mr. Andrew Weir becomes Minister of Supply, with a peerage, and a new Ministry of Ways and Communications will be offered to Sir Eric Geddes. The exception to the unexciting rearrangement of offices is the appointment of Mr. Winston Churchill to the War Office and Air Ministry. It is a double experiment, for it promotes a man of incalculable character to a post of the gravest responsibility, and it throws the organisation of our Air Forces once more into the melting-pot. We believe that, in both its aspects, this appointment will be strongly criticised. Mr. Churchill's authorship of the Gallipoli Campaign hardly seems to commend him as controller of our military destinies in a great war—for we are still at war. Surely, too, the vast importance of our Air Services and their myriad problems of development demand the sole attention of a highly qualified Minister.

In the immediate future the Irish situation will challenge the Government's full resources of courage and statesmanship. All sensible Irishmen will breathe a sigh of relief on learning that Viscount French retains the office of Viceroy. Lord French is a great soldier, a thoroughly honest administrator, and a patriotic Irishman. He assumed the government of this country at a time when its affairs were drifting into chaos. Sedition and tumult were rampant, and the sanctions of the law had fallen into contempt. By methods which all Irishmen respect—not by diplomacy, which in Ireland usually means timidity, but by firm and just enforcement of the law—Lord French restored order and relieved decent people from the haunting fear of oppression and violence. He is well aware of the difficulties that await him, and we are confident that he is prepared to meet them with the resolution and promptitude which have never failed him, whether in Flanders or in Ireland. He brings back a new colleague to the Irish Executive, for Mr. J. I. Macpherson will succeed Mr. Edward Shortt as Chief Secretary. Mr. Shortt is an exceedingly lucky man. He was a hard-working barrister when he came to Dublin Castle. Now, after a brief career in Ireland which, if less successful than Mr. Balfour's or Mr. Walter Long's, was brilliant in comparison with Mr. Birrell's or Sir Henry Duke's, he succeeds to the high dignity of the Home Office. Nobody will grudge him his new honours, for he worked hard in Ireland, and was too cool to be the victim of those illusions which usually beset Liberal Chief Secretaries. Mr. Macpherson is, like Mr. Shortt, a Liberal and Home Ruler. He began life as a journalist, which fact naturally commends him to us. He has been an able Under Secretary to two War Ministers. We give him a hearty welcome to Ireland, and wish, for his sake and for our own, that his work among us may improve his already considerable reputation. He comes at a trying time, but under the auspices of a wise and loyal Chief.

It must be the earnest hope of all good Irishmen that Lord French and Mr. Macpherson will prove to be that perfect combination of firmness and conciliation which is so rare, but is, at this time, so essential to our peace. They must face two facts. The first is that three Irish provinces are under the political control of a party which proposes to make British government impossible in Ireland. The other is that the methods which the Republican Party threatens to employ must be swiftly fatal, not only to private security, but to the country's industry and trade. Sinn Fein's attempt to discredit and defeat the Government must be met by all the resources of that Government. The law must be enforced firmly and without fear, but also without favour. The amplest protection must be given to life and property, and all whom Sinn Fein may attempt to bully out of individual rights or out of public office must be assured that a stronger force than Sinn Fein still exists in Ireland. If the Executive remembers its first duty and is properly supported by the Imperial Government, we shall have no sort of doubt concerning the issue of the conflict. The Executive, however, has other duties to the Irish people. Lord French is known to be thoroughly sympathetic with all projects for the promotion of our national welfare and the development of our national resources. He will have very valuable opportunities for translating his desires into action. In the first place, our farmers and traders will soon revolt against Sinn Fein's policy of impoverishment. In the next place, the Imperial Government stands ready to extend to Ireland the benefits of its great schemes of social and industrial reform. We believe that Lord French and Mr. Macpherson will hasten Sinn Fein's collapse in no way more surely and quickly than by meeting its policy of economic destruction with a policy of economic construction. They must not only protect what Sinn Fein seeks to destroy; they must be builders on their own account. We hope that the Irish Government will now hasten to produce such wise and generous plans for national reconstruction as will bring every sane and responsible element in the country to its side.

Dublin's Milk Supply.

The report presented to the Earl of Granard by the Committee on the Dublin milk supply is not a very satisfactory document. It bears on its face the marks of compromise among the various interests represented by its members. We should judge that they subordinated every other consideration to that of reaching unanimous conclusions as to the measures necessary to meet the immediate emergency. They have succeeded to this extent, but the report does not attempt to deal seriously with the fundamental problems of the Dublin milk supply. The terms of reference to the Committee were "to inquire into the present system of milk supply in the city of Dublin, and report on the best methods of obtaining additional supplies from the country and placing the supply of milk generally on a more satisfactory basis." The final clause of these terms of reference is virtually disregarded by the report. It finds that two-thirds of the present supply is provided by producers in or near the city and one-third by more distant producers; that there is an existing deficiency of 2,000 gallons per day; and that an additional supply resolves itself largely into a question of cans. Railway milk-cans have not hitherto been manufactured in Ireland, and are difficult to procure from Great Britain at present; but they are, nevertheless, lost in transit as empties with a rare prodigality. It is suggested that the railway companies, which at present carry them free, shall make a nominal charge for carriage and assume some responsibility for their safety; and the railway companies are ready to provide special vans if the milk supply business is properly organised—a remote contingency. Apart from the question of cans, the Committee makes certain definite recommendations to ensure maximum production during the present winter. These are the maintenance of control of the export of milch cows until, but no longer than, March or April; the retention of fixed prices for the raw material of production; and the setting aside for the cow-keepers, as far as possible, of the brewing and malting offals on which they are largely dependent. It is further proposed to take advantage of the scheme, outlined in Mr. R. A. Anderson's memorandum, whereby a wholesale milk distributive agency will obtain additional supplies of milk in proper condition from approved creameries in the country, and sell it at a price within the reach of the poor by reducing distribution charges. These measures, it is hoped, will meet the immediate emergency. The report makes no attempt, however, to deal with the question of the notoriously bad quality of the milk supply; this, it suggests, should be investigated by a competent authority. Nor does it attempt to deal with the wholly uneconomic system of milk production in Dublin. It merely reaches the conclusion that, in any case, "the system must continue in the absence of effort from an outside source to cater for this essential public requirement." Otherwise it is "neither practicable nor desirable to interfere with the city cow-keeping system." The problem is simply removed a stage further back to that of the general decline of dairying throughout the country, and especially of winter production; and we hope that the Committee's recommendation of an inquiry into this question will be at once adopted. In the meantime, however, we are not satisfied that nothing can be done to remedy the vices of the Dublin cow-keeping system. One thing emerges clearly from the report—namely, that the Dublin dairymen have no intention of relaxing their grip of a monopoly as wasteful, inefficient, and costly to the public as it is profitable to themselves. We can only hope that Mr. Anderson's scheme, which they regard with a sour suspicion, will gradually leaven the lump of this system of carefully conserved slovenliness.

Rain and Flood.

For several weeks now the weather in Dublin, and in Ireland generally, has been of a most depressing character. There have been frequent changes in the direction of the wind, but these have belied our hopes, and none of them has brought us relief from what the meteorological experts seem to delight in calling "precipitation." To-day's weather forecast is the most cheerful that we have had for some time. It tells us that the "depression" appears to be moving away from our coasts, and that the conditions will be "fair generally, with some passing showers." The temperature, it adds, will be moderate. Let us hope that this is the beginning of better days. The behaviour of the weather has been even worse on the Continent than in Ireland. Prolonged and heavy rains have caused a very serious situation in the basin of the Seine. The river has overflowed its banks at several places, and many large industrial establishments have been flooded. The tramway service in Paris has been disorganised, and it has been found impossible to maintain all the railway communications with the provinces. At Champigny-sur-Marne the floods have reached very serious proportions, and thousands of people have been driven from their homes. A somewhat similar report comes from Rome. The Tiber has risen to nearly forty-six feet, and is over the banks in various places. Other rivers in Italy are in flood also, and the whole Plain of Signa has been inundated.

MENTIONS FOR SERVICES WHILE PRISONERS OF WAR.

The names of the undermentioned have been brought to the notice of the Secretary of State for War for devotion to duty and valuable services rendered by them when prisoners of war, during epidemics of cholera and typhus fever, at the Prisoners of War Camp at Wittenberg, Germany:—

GENERAL REMARKS.

ead of "General Remarks," the the quality of milk distri- best known a subject of much im during the past few years of the seriousness of the situa- ters, as well as the public, the ended that the inquiry should y competent authority, as the position to say whether the state- ained in the Report are correct ter must continue until the pre- per production has been solved. ntic of its solution may be found in the Army and the War Office to the front at a time when they run the risk of being over-looked. But he would have been far better placed outside as the Ministry of Air, which is apparently to fall for the moment under his sovereignty too. There is no objection in prin- ciple to any movement towards a single Ministry of Defence, but the future of flying, as a whole, is impossible to say with any vast to be treated as a "side show." Or Sir F. E. Smith's allusion to the Woolwich—the highest judicial post in the Empire if not in the world—we prefer to leave the lawyers to speak.

WILL IT LAST?

A reshuffle, continues The Times, when the country was looking for reform, a careful balance of the old party interests instead of a bold scheme with like-minded men from every party, so many palpable misfits, and such a pervading air of staleness—it is impossible that there can be any real permanence in a Government composed on lines like these. The Prime Ministers, we suspect, fully recognises that fact. His notion, we believe, is to carry on for the period of the Peace Conference with something like his old administration, and then to see what comes of his reconstruction programme, i.e., he hopes merely poisoned one set of difficulties while creating another. And is not altogether unnecessary. The whole country recognises by this time that the peace is still to be won. If the elections proved anything at all, they proved that the public were anxious to get rid of George the strongest possible Government, discovered and conveyed to the military hospital in Cork. Hardman's condition is critical. No arrests have yet been made.

THE LOST IOLAIRE.

The Admiralty announces that the vessel, named Iolaire, recently lost in the Hebrides, is the yacht originally named Amaltheo, the property of the executors of the late Sir Ernest Ashton-Smith, which had been renamed Iolaire. The yacht, originally named Iolaire, which is the property of the executors of the late Sir Donald Currie, had been renamed Amaltheo, and is still on service.

NATIONALISATION OF RAILWAYS.

Headed by Mr. J. H. Thomas, a deputation of railwaymen had an interview yesterday morning with the Prime Minister at Downing street. The proceedings were private. At the close Mr. Thomas stated that the deputation had seen Mr. Lloyd George with regard to the nationalisation of railways, and had placed before him certain proposals affecting the position of railwaymen. The Prime Minister assured them that the whole subject of the nationalisation of railways would be held over for the present, but that before anything over done in the matter he would meet them again.

COURTMARTIAL RESULT.

Jeremiah Lucey, civilian, of Ballymackera, County Cork, tried by General Courtmartial at Cork, for refusing to state and answer questions reasonably addressed to him by a police constable at Ballymackera, and for receiving and having in his possession a document likely to cause disaffection among the civilian population, was fined £100 or six months' imprisonment with hard labour.

The findings and sentence have been duly confirmed.

Mr. Clynes, Minister of Food, has appointed Mr. A. Andrews Uthwatt, formerly legal adviser to the Ministry of Food, to be a member of the Consultative Council, in place of Sir William Ashley resigned.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

A RESHUFFLE.

We have no hesitation in saying, says The Times, that Mr. Lloyd George's second Government, which was formally constituted yesterday, will come as a disappointment to his gigantic following in the country. Mr. Lloyd George seems almost to have gone out of his way to shatter every hope that the reconstruction would at least result in the infusion of new blood to the utmost limits of his scope, and in some attempt to readjust the palpable misfits. He has not even made the most of such opportunities as he allowed himself. We are very far from condemning his Government altogether, for the old régime had many brilliant features, and in some cases he has wisely left them alone. By retaining the old colleagues practically en bloc, he has inevitably succeeded, here and there, in perpetuating his good experiments. Who are the younger men who were plainly marked out for enlarged responsibilities by their work in Parliament and in the departments? Sir L. Worthington Evans, no doubt, was one of them. Mr. Ian Macpherson was another, and he will go, with general good will, to his difficult task in Ireland. Yet it may well be doubted whether Ireland was not one of those exceptional cases (like the Ministry of Education and the India Office) where continuity of administration was more important than the promotion of the individual. It is frankly impossible to dissociate Mr. Shortt's translation to the Home Office from his obvious recent disagreement with Lord French. Meanwhile, the process of reshuffling the older hands suggests exactly the same want of imagination. Mr. Bonar Law quite rightly vacates the Treasury, which was always incompatible with his present duties in the House of Commons; but Mr. Chamberlain, with all his invincible exution and bonhomie, represents an obsolete tradition and a peculiarly stereotyped outlook. As for the great Service departments, Mr. Long's appointment to the Admiralty is frankly inexplicable, while Mr. Churchill seems to have been selected for (or has selected himself) for the one post which is calculated to raise the greatest outcry. We have never under-rated Mr. Churchill's abilities, and there is just this to be said for his present choice—that he may be trusted to keep the Army and the War Office to the front at a time when they run the risk of being over-looked. But he would have been far better placed outside as the Ministry of Air, which is apparently to fall for the moment under his sovereignty too. There is no objection in principle to any movement towards a single Ministry of Defence, but the future of flying, as a whole, is impossible to say with any vast to be treated as a "side show." Or Sir F. E. Smith's allusion to the Woolwich—the highest judicial post in the Empire if not in the world—we prefer to leave the lawyers to speak.

PEACE CONFERENCE.

PREMIER LEAVES TO-DAY FOR PARIS.

The Prime Minister and Mr. Bonar Law, accompanied by the Prime Ministers of Canada, Australia, South Africa, and Newfoundland, and the Maharajah of Bekanir, leave for Paris this morning for preliminary conversation with the heads of the Allied and associated States.

An Exchange Paris telegram states that it seems to be settled now that the first Inter-Allied Conference will take place at the Quai d'Orsay on Sunday. By that time Mr. Lloyd George and President Wilson will be in Paris. Signor Orlando, who expects to be in Rome on Tuesday next, will not be present at the Sunday sitting. M. Clemenceau has had an interview with Colonel House. The programme will be discussed by the French Government, and communicated to the Allied Powers respectively, showing the procedure to be followed and the number and status of the delegates.

Political circles are well satisfied with the choice of the French Plenipotentiaries to the Peace Conference, each of whom, it is unanimously agreed, is especially qualified to watch over French interests during the Peace Association (Paris Correspondent).

Amongst the first wenting of the leaders of the various Governments, or, to be more correct, the meeting of the Inter-Allied Supreme Political Council, which we have been told on Thursday at the Foreign Office, has been postponed till to-morrow.

It is practically certain that the five Great Powers—the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan—will each have five delegates. The smaller belligerent Powers—Belgium, Greece, Portugal, Rumania, Serbia, China, and Brazil—will each have three, and the Colonies and Dominions will also each have two, while States which broke off relations with the Central Empires, but took no effective part in the war will each have one. All the delegates will be permanent.

Other technical advisers for economic and social questions, etc., will be appointed, and representatives of the British Dominions will be found to give their opinions on all problems of particular interest to them.

Mr. Bonar Law and his Secretary, Mr. J. C. C. Davidson, propose, weather permitting, to fly to France to-day. Mr. Bonar Law will probably be coming backwards and forwards between Paris and London travelling by aeroplane whenever possible.

THE GERMAN DELEGATES.

Writing from Paris on Friday, Reuter's Correspondent says:—The Berlin delegates to the Peace Conference are expected to arrive in Paris either to-morrow or on Sunday. It is understood that the reason why they did not come earlier is that they knew that the Conference would not open until Mr. Lloyd George was able to be present.

PRESIDENT WILSON ORDERED TO REST.

A Paris telegram, dated Friday, states that President Wilson has been ordered forty-eight hours rest. He is not ill, but is overtired as the result of the strain of the past few days.

THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE.

NEW YEAR GREETINGS.

The following Special Order of the Day by Sir Douglas Haig was issued for the information of troops in France:—

To Her Majesty the Queen, Buckingham Palace London—All ranks, Queen Mary's Army Auxiliary Corps, Princess Patricia's, France, offer Your Majesty loyal good wishes for the new year.

Reply:—Please tell all ranks of Q.M.A.A.C., British Armies in France, how much I appreciate their kind message, and I wish them all the happiness in return.

The following telegram, addressed to Sir Douglas Haig, has been received from Marshal Foch, Commander-in-Chief, on behalf of the French Armies under my command, and in my own name, I send my warmest good wishes for 1919 to you and your gallant Armies, to your command, and their families. I beg you personally, Field-Marshal, to accept my most affectionate sentiments, and towards you the strongest wishes for yourself and for your family.

Reply:—The kindly thought which had prompted your Message to Marshal Foch, and to me, to the soldiers under my command, and their families such a welcome greeting has caused much pleasure to us all. We are deeply touched by this fresh proof of friendship from our French comrades, to whom the war has bound us with the close ties of common sacrifice and common success. I beg that you will accept personally, and convey to your gallant troops, the greetings of our Armies and hearty good wishes for the years to come.

THE GERMAN NAVAL SURRENDERS.

The Press Association learns authoritatively that the disposition of the German ports in the place of the Mackensen, has been duly delivered at Scapa. The Allied Commission which has been investigating the matter will now be speeded up the surrenders to some extent, but the situation is full of difficulties. The Mackensen will probably be completed, and not ready for sea, and investigation shows that she is not complicated. There is reason to suppose that, prior to the actual revolt, the whole scheme of the High Sea Fleet were decently kept, but after this, and especially after the surrender order was received, discipline naturally difficult to get the crews to do anything. Each vessel, including even small mine-sweepers, had been provided with a Soldiers' Council, and these men only obey as seems good to them. This condition alone would make the vessels left in Germany highly inefficient. Then the organisation has rendered them more so by requiring the removal of guns, ammunition, range-finders, and the like. Some ships are in better than others, and, so far as the conditions disclosed will permit, the disarmament goes on satisfactorily. At Kiel, Wilhelmshaven, and other big ports demobilisation has been practically completed. Some workmen have been put into store under Allied control, and in some cases the guns have been put ashore. To some extent the demobilisation preceding on ships in Germain ports obtains on the surrendered ships at Scapa. The officers can only give orders through members of the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council who are on board, and when the orders are passed on the men frequently ignore them. About 1,700 German officers remain on board ship at night. The city policemen of the Navigation Squad operated the Slaten Island ferry boat yesterday evening. The city officials are of opinion that if the strike continues for forty-eight hours it will result in great suffering in Greater New York, owing to the scarcity of fuel and foodstuffs. It is stated that the longshoremen are ready to strike in sympathy.

President Wilson is expected to take action in regard to the settlement of the strike, which has prostrated the harbour traffic. The Government officials have cabled to him a full account of the situation, and are awaiting his reply.

The strikers have definitely voted in favour of rejecting the Federal Administration's proposal for an "armistice" in order to discuss a settlement, and they demand the unconditional surrender of the boat-owners. Meanwhile, food shipments are being diverted by the Railroad Administration to other routes, in order to reduce the suffering to a minimum in the event of a protracted deadlock

MR. G. H. ROBERTS AND THE PROBLEMS OF LABOUR.

Speaking in London yesterday on the aims of the Industrial League, Mr. G. H. Roberts, M.P., said that it was no use denying the fact that there were many omens of a disturbing character—that there were influences at work which seemed to take a delight in disintegrating the country. The greatest problem was the relation between employer and employed. The people seemed to believe in violence, but violence brought disaster on the very people whom it was desired to assist. Reliance should not be placed on Government departments for the preservation of industrial peace. This depended on employer and employed.

Mr. Roberts announced that Sir William Dupre had sent a donation of £20,000 to the funds of the League.

Mr. Barnes said that we were passing through trying times, and a brain storm was raging in the minds of the people in this and other countries, and it was for us to determine whether that brain storm would take us into new extensions of freedom or drag us down to anarchy. He stood for increase of production in the workshops and for giving every man a chance for determination of the conditions of his daily toil. In the past the workman had accepted a position of subordination, but in the new days he was not agitated unless he ceased to be submissive. Employers should sympathetically consider the views of the workers, and workmen should recognise that the employer had his difficulties. This would bring the two together, and the workmen would no longer feel that they were mere cogs in the wheel.

INTERNATIONAL LABOUR CONFERENCE.

Reuter learns that Mr. Arthur Henderson accompanied by his son and a secretary, will arrive in Paris on Monday night, en route for Lausanne, where he will attend the International Labour Conference.

A FEELING OF DISAPPOINTMENT.

The prevailing political opinion last night, says the Parliamentary Correspondent of The Times, was one of disappointment at the absence of any conspicuous change in personnel. The appointments will render by-elections necessary at Glasgow, Liverpool, Oxford University, Bath, and Carmarthen, Warwick and Leamington. But the General Election in miniature, which was confidentially predicted in some quarters as the result of a root and branch reconstruction of the Government, must wait for a more convenient season.

COUNTY CORK OUTRAGE.

TWO SOLDIERS WOUNDED.

Shortly before 12 o'clock last night, two soldiers, who were guarding Monard railway bridge on the Great Southern and Western Railway between Cork and Blarney, were suddenly fired on at close range by two men from behind a fence. One of the soldiers, Private Hardman, was shot in the head, and the other, Private Perry, was shot in the leg. They were subsequently discovered and conveyed to the military hospital in Cork. Hardman's condition is critical. No arrests have yet been made.

PEACE SETTLEMENT.

AGREEMENT ON TERMS.

STATEMENT BY AMERICAN AMBASSADOR.

The new American Ambassador, Mr. J. W. Davis, yesterday made his first public appearance since his arrival in England at a luncheon given in his honour by the Pilgrims' Club at the Savoy Hotel, London. The Duke of Connaught presided over a large and distinguished gathering.

Lord Reading, who left in the morning for Paris, sent a message in which he eulogised the Ambassador, and congratulated this country on being fortunate in having an Ambassador who would carry out the great traditions of his predecessors.

Mr. Chauncey Depew, of the American Pilgrims, wrote that the Ambassador opened a new era, and that the messages for peace from America in the past had proved a prophet and the dreamer a statesman. His progress of English-speaking peoples belting the globe was the moral of a League of Nations.

The Duke of Connaught, in giving the toast of "The King and the President," said that they hoped Mr. Davis would be able to cement even more closely the ties which knit the two countries.

Earl Curzon of Kedleston, proposing "The Ambassador," said that the task of the future could only be successfully confronted by the American and British nations standing side by side to shoulder the burden. If from the discussions at Paris the aspiration of a League of Nations was not fulfilled, then there would emerge a league of English-speaking nations, which would be a league for the guardianship of frontiers and of the non-nationalities struggling into existence.

The American Ambassador, in reply, said that the reception which had been given in this country to President Wilson had gone home to the heart of America, and had forged another and a lasting link in the chain which united the two countries. He paid a high tribute to the way in which Britons had borne themselves during the war, and of the doggedness which they had displayed. Whatever else the war might leave behind it, he was hopeful that in the ensuing years the British and American survivors of the conflict would sit side by side to fall again of valorous deeds against a common foe. Cheers.) In the years to come, he said, he trusted on its arms and breathed again, and turned with no light estimate of its task to the labour of peace and reconstruction. That will call for all we had of wisdom, courage, faith, and self-restraint.

It is a happy augury, he continued, that already we have agreed in terms upon the broad outlines that that settlement must take, and have proclaimed that agreement before all the world.

Surely the wish is not merely father to the thought. It is to express the conviction that in matters of detail we shall be in equal harmony, and I am so convinced, because I believe that the same great ideals and purposes animate both Great Britain and America. They mean to strive for justice, exact, complete, and even-handed, for all nations and peoples. For that justice which shall not shrink from demanding that the spoiler shall return all that he has taken from the despoiled, and shall restore, as far as human hands can do it, the havoc which his crime has caused. (Cheers.) With this firm basis for a broader freedom for ourselves and for all mankind. We ask to be free from the constant fear of war, and from the claims and burdens which that fear imposes. We desire to rejoice at home in the ancient liberties which have come down to us and abroad to be secure in the shield of common security for our rightful errands, and we look with confidence to the day when all the nations of the earth shall know this as the truth which shall make them free. Since real vigilance is the price both of justice and liberty, it was another Great Britain who spoke of free trade in Your Majesty loyal good wishes for the new year.

Reply:—Please tell all ranks of Q.M.A.A.C., British Armies in France, how much I appreciate their kind message, and I wish them all the happiness in return.

The following telegram, addressed to Sir Douglas Haig, has been received from Marshal Foch, Commander-in-Chief, on behalf of the French Armies under my command, and in my own name, I send my warmest good wishes for 1919 to you and your gallant Armies, to your command, and their families. ## LUXEMBURG DEMANDS A REPUBLIC.

A COMMITTEE OF PUBLIC SAFETY.

Reuter's Stockholm Correspondent, telegraphing yesterday, says:—A procession of 600 persons has made a demonstration in front of the Grand Ducal Palace and Ministry, demanding the abdication of the Grand Duchess and the establishment of a republic. A Committee of Public Safety has been set up. Loyal troops and the armed force have been removed, volunteer military taking the place of the regular troops. Quiet is everywhere maintained.

War Cabinet. He was formerly Advocate-General of Bengal.

Sir Hardman Lever will, it is understood, continue his services as one of the Joint Secretaries to the Treasury without a seat in Parliament.

OPENING OF PARLIAMENT.

The Press Association is officially informed from a source which leaves no room for doubt that the rumour of the postponement of the opening of Parliament, which will be on Tuesday, February 4th, is already announced.

BY-ELECTIONS TO FOLLOW APPOINTMENTS.

The Press Association says that appointments to the Government announced last night involve by-elections in six constituencies. A vacancy in the representation of Oxford University by the elevation of Sir Edmund Prothero, Minister of Agriculture, to the Peerage, Sir Hamar Greenwood, Bart., Sinn Feiner, there is a vacancy in the West Derby Division of Liverpool by the appointment of Sir Frederick Smith as Lord Chancellor and the grant of a Peerage. Sir Frederick Smith's majority over his Labour opponent was 6,004.

Sir Robert Horne, the new Minister of Labour, was returned at the General Election for the Hillhead Division of Glasgow, and had not previously sat in the House of Commons. He has considerable knowledge of labour as Admiralty both in connection with the supply of material and with labour. He had a majority of 8,817 over a Labour opponent, and his re-election is not likely to be opposed.

Mr. Ian Macpherson, lately Deputy Secretary for War, has not held office hitherto under the Crown, and vacates his seat on his appointment as Chief Secretary for Ireland. He had a Labour opponent in Ross and Cromarty at the General Election, and his majority was 6,120.

A by-election at Colchester is caused by the appointment of Sir Lee Worthington Evans as Minister of Pensions, in succession to Mr. Hodge, who leaves the Government. The Coalition majority was 4,076.

Sir Ernest Pollock, the new Solicitor-General, has not before held Ministerial office, though he has rendered important services as Chairman of the War Committee of the Contraband Committee, and later as Controller of the Foreign Trade Department. His return for Warwick and Leamington at the General Election was unopposed. A seat will probably be found in the House of Commons for Sir S. P. Sinha, who, by an interesting innovation, has been appointed Under Secretary for India. He was the first native member of the Viceroy's Executive Council, and served as a member of the Imperial War Conference and the Imperial War Conference, and the Imperial

HARBOUR STRIKE AT NEW YORK.

PRESIDENT WILSON TO ACT.

A New York message says: The marine strikers deny that they have entered into any agreement to arbitrate, but say that the Strike Committee will consider the employers' proposals. Meanwhile, the harbour continues to be tied up as chaotic. Those New Jersey and Staten Island ticket-holders who reached the city yesterday had a most difficult task in reaching their homes at night. The city policemen of the Navigation Squad operated the Staten Island ferry boat yesterday evening. The city officials are of opinion that if the strike continues for forty-eight hours it will result in great suffering in Greater New York, owing to the scarcity of fuel and foodstuffs. It is stated that the longshoremen are ready to strike in sympathy.

President Wilson is expected to take action

WOUNDED, MISSING, AND PRISONERS.

BRITISH RED CROSS AND ST. JOHN.—Searches made for Capt. Ann Hon. Sec., Enquiry Department, 51 Clarence street, Dublin.

PRISONER'S DEATH FROM ILL-TREATMENT IN GERMANY.

At Fulham yesterday an inquiry was held with reference to the death of Private Samuel Davies, aged 20, of the Royal Warwickshire Fusiliers, whose home address was stated to be Glasgow. Sergeant Harris said Devine was admitted to the Fulham Military Hospital, December 12th, very weak and ill. He had come from the camp at Parchim, and asked that when released from the Army he might be sent to a sanatorium.

Sister Brennan said the death occurred on Jan. 2nd. Deceased complained of insufficient feeding and overwork whilst behind the German lines at Ghent, in Belgium.

Captain Donald Bailey said that Devine was employed behind the German lines lifting railway lines. Food was so scanty that no man could work on it. The medical staff gave him an injection. There was a rumour in the medical world that the Germans were inoculating prisoners with bacilli of tubercle. Witness had had a number of cases of tubercle in repatriated prisoners.

Captain Cassandra Dickson said that th man weighed 5st. 10lbs. Fat was scanty, and the muscles shrunken. The tubercle had run a rapid course due to privation. The germs of five tubercle would develop in five weeks. Death with due to acute tuberculosis and phthisis.

The jury returned a verdict accordingly, and added that death was accelerated by the privations undergone whilst a prisoner of war in Germany.

SINN FEIN AND THE WESTMEATH HUNT.

At the meeting of the South Westmeath Executive of Sinn Fein yesterday it was unanimously resolved that steps embraced in the recent resolution passed by the Executive of their respective districts if the interned prisoners were not released immediately. The resolution continued:—"We are determined that the British officers or Irish shoneens to make a play-ground of our county while our leaders are imprisoned."

A resolution to be transmitted through the American Ambassador at London, was passed, requesting President Wilson to procure the release of the prisoners to enable them to set up a government "by the consent of the governed."

DISTURBANCE IN MOUNTJOY PRISON.

In Mountjoy Prison a serious disturbance has been caused by eight Sinn Fein prisoners, who have smashed the furniture and windows of their cells. These men claim to be treated in the category of "political" prisoners. The Visiting Committee of Justices interviewed the prisoners individually before them, and they stated that the action that they had taken was to assert their claim to be treated as "political" offenders. After careful consideration, the Committee decided to request the authorities to give effect to the claim of the "political" prisoners. The Chairman, Sir John Irwin, told a newspaper representative, that there was no cause for anxiety. A certain amount of damage had been done by the prisoners, but matters were well in hand, and he anticipated a speedy settlement.

COUNTESS PLUNKETT AND THE TOLERANCE OF SINN FEIN.

Addressing a meeting at Kilbeggan (South Westmeath), Countess Plunkett emphatically denied that Sinn Fein was tainted with religious bigotry, as they had open arms for every Protestant, Presbyterian, Methodist, or any other non-Catholic who desired to serve Ireland. The Prime Minister had locked up the prisoners to prevent the demand for an independent Ireland. So far from succeeding the issue was never before raised as it was raised now. She congratulated the people of Westmeath on returning such a patriot as Mr. L. Ginnell and concluded by stating that Ireland was the only country in which the Christian ... of patriotism was regarded as a crime.

CORK CORPORATION AND PRESIDENT WILSON.

At a special meeting of the Cork Corporation, held yesterday evening—the Lord Mayor presiding—Aldorman Meade moved that the freedom of the city be given to President Wilson as a mark of appreciation of the high principles laid down by him for the settlement of the peace of the world. He said that Irishmen looked to President Wilson with hope for the enforcement of his principles, despite the intrigue of the reactionary diplomatists. Through the port of Cork millions of the Irish race had gone to build up the American Republic, and they had now in Cork a great American firm—the Ford—and they looked forward to further industrial development. In the event of President Wilson's not coming to Cork, he proposed that the Lord Mayor and the city members of Parliament should be sent to present the freedom to him.

Alderman Forde seconded.

Councillor Lane said that the British Treasury had spent thousands in propaganda work in America, trying to convince the Americans that the Irish were pro-German and anti-American. This he denied.

Councillor Williams said that they could not shut their eyes to the fact that President Wilson's Navy had received brutal treatment in Cork.

The Lord Mayor said that the Corporation was not responsible for the treatment extended to the American Navy.

The motion was passed amid applause.

AGRICULTURAL WAGES PROSECUTION.

A charge of not having paid the wages fixed by the Agricultural Wages Board under the Corn Production Act, 1917, was brought against James Healy, 19 Constitution Hill, Dublin, in the Northern Police Court yesterday. It was alleged that he paid a labourer 16/- a week instead of 21/6, and that arrears of £10 4/- were due. The penalty, it was stated, was £30 and £1 for every day the labourer was unpaid. Mr. Daly prosecuted for the Agricultural Wages Board, and Mr. E. H. Burne appeared for defendant.

Butter Prosecution in Listowel.—A farmer named Galvin was prosecuted for exposing for sale in Listowel market butter containing 20 per cent. of moisture. Mr. Kenny, Department of Agriculture, stated that butter in other parts of Ireland was made with considerably less moisture. The magistrates, however, adhered to a rule laid down by them for some years past, and refused to convict where the moisture did not exceed 20 per cent.

CIVIL SERVICE APPOINTMENTS FOR SOLDIERS.

THE FLOUR MILLS DI

The employés in the Irish flo... ...e express satisfaction at the terms of Professor Baillie's award, which practically gives a 56 hours working week, pending the result of a national award in the industry in England, the terms of which is the matter of hours of labour will apply in Ireland. The financial clause is for ... ing an increase of 7s. 6d. per week to the mill hands is also regarded with satisfaction.

THE 47 HOURS WEEK.

On the Teeside the bulk of the men striking against the 47 hours a week remain idle, pending a reply to the men's offer of three months' acceptance subject to two meals breaks. The men's demand for a breakfast interval has been conceded in two establishments, and work resumed.

There was no change in the forty-seven hours' dispute in the Tyne shipyards yesterday, and only a small percentage of the men were working, including men of all trades. The employers have been advised that it was quite improbable that the suggested conference between employers and delegates would take place until the men were working in an unconstitutional manner had resumed work.

A strike of boilermakers and shipwrights in Hull affects seventeen vessels. The employers agreed that the men should revert to the usual winter hours, from daylight to dusk.

ENGLAND'S PART IN THE WAR.

AMERICAN PASTOR'S TRIBUTE.

A STRIKING ADDRESS.

Preaching in the Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, New York, on November 17, 1918, the well-known American Pastor, Rev. Henry A. Wise Wood, said a generous tribute to the part played by Great Britain in the war. In the course of his address, Mr. Wood emphasised the fact that had not Great Britain held the seas "the night of barbarism would have overspread Europe once more, and swept thence into our own skies." It is for this reason, he continued, that I have come to this sanctuary of Anglo-Saxon Americanism, an American whose ancestors fought Great Britain in our revolutionary war, to thank God for Great Britain. So I stand here to offer thanks that I was born of a nation that came out of the womb of that great mother of liberty. Greece gave to the world our philosophy and art. Rome, our government and law. Great Britain gave to it equality and freedom. Nor did she stop with those gifts, for she has since insured this preservation, and has sown them with a prodigal hand in every corner of the earth, herself surpassing all others in their amplification and enjoyment, as ourselves. Truly did Nicholas Murray Butler say of England that she has stood guardian at the gate of the Temple of Liberty for a thousand years.

THE FOURTEEN POINTS.

Who, therefore, are we, that at the close of the struggle should strut down from the mountain bearing tables of stone on which are graven fourteen irrevocable commandments of our own devising? Our fourteen points! Let us beware lest we become ridiculous thereby. Are we competent to prescribe Anglo-Saxon democracy for a stricken world? Are we as competent to do so as the Mother of Democracy, before whose eyes we have elevated our tables of stone, as if they were sacred writ? Let us ask.

A FLATTERING COMPARISON.

Great Britain has a Government responsive to popular sentiment; we have not. When the British people repudiate their Government it resigns; when our is repudiated—as it was recently—it continues to misrepresent public sentiment and holds on till it expires by limitation. Parliament rules; Congress does not. The Act of Parliament is final; that of Congress is provisional. There is no master above Parliament; there are two above Congress. We freed our slaves in '63; Great Britain had freed hers in '33. We confiscated our slaves and ruined their owners, leaving the latter no capital with which to employ them. Great Britain redeemed hers by purchase—770,000 of them—at the cost of 95 millions of dollars. A bloody war and eight billions of money, spent, first and last, was the price we paid. To-day England there are old-age pensions; there are not such here. In England there is workmen's health assurance; there is none here. In England there are national labour exchanges and insurance against unemployment, and there is a minimum wage in low-paid industries. Where in this country are these fruits of democracy to be found?

THE MOTHER OF DEMOCRACY.

Nevertheless, we talk of democracy as if we ourselves were its foremost practitioners; as if, in very fact, we were the keeper of its great seal. Why, for long months before the war, Great Britain rendered democracy, so-called, impossible. Ireland and the 10th Inniskillings (Derry Regiment) Ulster Division, said that the Derrymen's work throughout the campaign was a marvellous record of achievement. They had proved themselves worthy to stand in line with the greatest heroes of the past.

Co. Kildare War Pensions Committee.—At a meeting of the Co. Kildare War Pensions Committee, it was reported that 300 families in the county were receiving allowances. Three grants of £25 each were received during the last month from the King's Fund for Discharged and Disabled Soldiers. Lady Mayo's scheme for re-organising and amalgamating some of the Sub-Committee's was discussed, and adopted.

Important Point in Whiskey Prosecution.—The Gorey magistrates on Friday dismissed a prosecution brought against Mrs. Breslin, grocer, Gorey, for selling whiskey 30 degrees under proof, 25 being the maximum allowed by law. Mr. P. J. O'Connor, solicitor, raised the point that the sergeant got two separate naggins of whiskey instead of getting the sample in bulk from the vendor, and the foreman proved that the naggins were given in the ordinary course as they received them from a Dublin firm.

Dungarvan Farmers and the Restrictions on Oats.—A number of farmers who brought loads of oats into Dungarvan on Wednesday, and took them to the mercantile stores, returned with their loads as no buying in consequence of the action of the Government. They were also told to take their oats home again. The matter was discussed at the meeting of the Urban Council, and a resolution was adopted calling on the Government to keep to the terms of the agreements. It appears that the stores of the merchants are filled with oats, and they are unable to dispose of it.

DUBLIN AND DISTRICT.

Church of Ireland Labour Home and Yard.—The annual entertainment, kindly given by members of Christ Church, Leeson Park, congregation, to the Labour Home, took place on Thursday last. About thirty men sat down to dinner. Afterwards a short concert, etc., was given, which the men evidently appreciated greatly.

1,000 Passengers "Stranded" at the North Wall.—The congestion in cross-Channel passenger traffic reached a climax last night, when there were about one thousand too many passengers for the outward North Wall express steamer Rathmore, bound for Holyhead.

DUNLOP RUBBER COMPANY'S CORK BRANCH.

At the meeting of the Cork Corporation yesterday, a communication was read from the Hammond Lane Foundry Company, Dublin, who had previously withdrawn their offer to rent the Cork Shell Factory, declining to reconsider their decision. Mr. J. A. Taylor, the Irish manager of the Dunlop Rubber Company, Dublin, wrote offering to rent the factory at £200 per annum, as they were most anxious to establish their business in Cork.

The members expressed satisfaction at this, and decided to ask the Ministry of Munitions to surrender their lease, so as to facilitate the letting of the premises.

COMING EVENT.

Weekly Dances.—Mr. Morosini-Whelan announces in our advertising columns that he has arranged to hold his dance in the Mills Hall, Merrion row every Thursday, instead of Monday.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE CHURCH AND PARTITION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The temperate tone and the conciliatory language of the letter upon the Church of Ireland and partition from Mr. H. de Fellenberg Montgomery in your issue of the 4th inst. emboldens me to ask your leave for space to put to him a question. Mr. Montgomery says: "The sooner it is realised that the North-East cannot be brought under the rule of a Dublin Parliament ... the better." In what sense does Mr. Montgomery use the word "cannot"? Is it in the sense that a thistle cannot bear roses or a horse bray? Is it in the sense that my Lady Greef-Layden really cannot get bring herself to interview poor John's attorneys, Messrs. Handel and Braine? Or, as we are dealing with matters ecclesiastical, is it in the sense that the Dean of St. Patrick's cannot burn the head waiter of our best hotel, not because he may be a Papist, but because he is not dead yet? Or, finally, is it because he is not dead yet? Or, finally, is it because we do not breed super-men in Ireland?

You, sir, speak constantly of the coercion of Ulster, and we all know it is unthinkable. Is the acquiescence of Ulster inconceivable in changes made ripe by time? Is the North-East constitutionally unable to realise that by missionary work even among domestic heathen, rather than by advertising campaigns, she, her sons and women, will live up for themselves and their children treasure where moth and rust do not corrupt?—Yours, etc.,

JOHN OWENS.

Dublin, January 9th, 1919.

OUT-OF-WORK DONATIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Although the subject of unemployment donations has been frequently ventilated by your correspondents, another fact or two may tend to add strength to the arguments against this extraordinary premium on idleness.

(i.) A man left my employment nearly five years ago of his own free will, having married a woman with a holding of £6 per annum. I believe his father has since died, so that he has a second holding. He occasionally works for me as a favour and when he has spare time. He has now 29s. a week for himself and further allowances for his children.

(ii.) A few days ago my steward got a man to take a contract to repair a fence. He obtained, shortly afterwards, unemployment compensation of 29s. a week, and has declined to carry out the work—i.e., he has never turned up—and he told one of my men that he saw no reason to work while he could be paid for not working.

(iii.) I dismissed a man for neglect of work and idleness late July. He got employment at a neighbouring place, at 8d. per hour wages, for two or three months. He is now drawing 29s. per week, and openly boasts that he now has no reason to work. He is an ordinary labourer. With me he was paid the minimum wage of 6d. per hour, and 7d. per hour overtime. Now he is getting over 2d. an hour for a twenty-four hours' day, doing nothing.—Yours, etc., "FIAT JUSTITIA."

January 9th, 1919.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I am seventy-six years of age. I have a wife and invalid daughter to support. My wages are 16s. per week and a cottage. I applied for the old age pension to supplement my income, and was told that, having that salary, I was not entitled to it. Can you, sir, tell me if that is so? It seems incredible, seeing that idle men are allowed 29s. a week, and I, with very small income, should also be allowed the paltry sum of 7s. 6d., after sixty years of incessant toil.—Yours, etc.,

"WORKING-MAN."

Co. Wicklow, January 10th, 1919.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I hope that your editorial comments on the "Out-Work" scandal will have an effect in having some sort of inspection into the cases to which the Labour Exchange are so freely granting comparatively large sums of money. Men of silly labar cry the farm labourers' girls have left, and are leaving, their places wholesale, and apparently are able to get a 25s. a week job without any trouble. As a contrast, might I point to the way in which retired civil servants—men, at all events, who have done the State some service—are being treated? The ways of Government, or rather of those who administer Government regulations, are wonderful, if not mysterious.—Yours, etc., "SERVANTLESS."

Dublin, January 10th, 1919.

COMPULSORY TILLAGE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—A great many Irish farmers will feel grateful to Colonel Westropp for giving us much publicity to their grievances, and most particularly for those that, owing to the situation of their farms, are his harder than others who live in districts more suitable for tillage. In yesterday's Irish Times, at the side of Colonel Westropp's letter, you have a most interesting print most interesting statistics of rainfall in various parts of Ireland, which ought to make English eyes open in 1919 amazingly.

At Clondalkin, Co. Dublin, and, I presume, in Merrion street, where the Department do most of their farming, there is a rainfall of 28.78 inches, which ought to be about a perfect amount from an agricultural point of view, as, in my opinion, no crops can be grown suffering from want of moisture, and Ireland would no longer be known as the Emerald Isle. At Clondalkin, Co. Limerick, which is quite contiguous to the town of Killaloe, the rainfall was 50.88 inches, which fell on 216 days, leaving 149 days dry. Of course, a fall of 50 inches would have been in May and early in June, when the turnip crop almost disappeared for want of a few showers.

We often see complaints from Meath and Kildare farmers at having to break up old fields which are only excuse for not tilling is that they can make just as much money by grazing or letting for grazing as they can make by tillage. When sheep do till those lands, and thresh from 20 to 30 barrels per acre, and have Dublin market at their elbow, to sell the corn for a handsome price, and the land remains.

Now I will try to publish the difficulty under which another section of farmers suffer. Often their new tillage ploughs are really too hard by they are hit by it. Last year I went to considerable trouble to keep accounts of the dates on which corn was done, and what it was worth at heights above sea-level, and the result was that, so far as 1918 crop was concerned, I found that corn grown on land from 50 to 150 feet above sea-level ripened at least two months before corn put down on the same day at an altitude of 350 feet.

I saw corn cut and being drawn into the barn on August 16th in the Suir Valley below Clonmel that I saw being put down on April 20th. Corn was cut near Thurles on September 1st that was set on April 15th, and corn at the foot of 800 feet, did not even ripen, and was cut the first week of November. I need not tell the reader what the yield will about guess. Another difficulty of the farmer on this sort of land is the number of days that clouds prevent him getting his corn, when his neighbour, a few miles away, or often only a few hundreds of yards, can work quite well. The farmer who lives at an height over 700 feet above sea-level will quite understand all this, but the more fortunate man who lives four miles off will probably not. That cannot be helped, but just let him have a try himself at tillage farming anywhere above 700 feet up.

Many people will ask: Why till land at this altitude? But you must remember that the Department and their steam-roller are behind.—Yours, etc.,

A ROUND TABLE CONFERENCE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—A great many Irish farmers will feel grateful to Colonel Westropp for giving us much publicity to their grievances, and most particularly for those that, owing to the situation of their farms, are his harder than others who live in districts more suitable for tillage. In yesterday's Irish Times, at the side of Colonel Westropp's letter, you have a most interesting print most interesting statistics of rainfall in various parts of Ireland, which ought to make English eyes open in 1919 amazingly.

At Clondalkin, Co. Dublin, and, I presume, in Merrion street, where the Department do most of their farming, there is a rainfall of 28.78 inches, which ought to be about a perfect amount from an agricultural point of view, as, in my opinion, no crops can be grown suffering from want of moisture, and Ireland would no longer be known as the Emerald Isle. At Clondalkin, Co. Limerick, which is quite contiguous to the town of Killaloe, the rainfall was 50.88 inches, which fell on 216 days, leaving 149 days dry. Of course, a fall of 50 inches would have been in May and early in June, when the turnip crop almost disappeared for want of a few showers.

We often see complaints from Meath and Kildare farmers at having to break up old fields which are only excuse for not tilling is that they can make just as much money by grazing or letting for grazing as they can make by tillage. When sheep do till those lands, and thresh from 20 to 30 barrels per acre, and have Dublin market at their elbow, to sell the corn for a handsome price, and the land remains.

Now I will try to publish the difficulty under which another section of farmers suffer. Often their new tillage ploughs are really too hard by they are hit by it. Last year I went to considerable trouble to keep accounts of the dates on which corn was done, and what it was worth at heights above sea-level, and the result was that, so far as 1918 crop was concerned, I found that corn grown on land from 50 to 150 feet above sea-level ripened at least two months before corn put down on the same day at an altitude of 350 feet.

I saw corn cut and being drawn into the barn on August 16th in the Suir Valley below Clonmel that I saw being put down on April 20th. Corn was cut near Thurles on September 1st that was set on April 15th, and corn at the foot of 800 feet, did not even ripen, and was cut the first week of November. I need not tell the reader what the yield will about guess. Another difficulty of the farmer on this sort of land is the number of days that clouds prevent him getting his corn, when his neighbour, a few miles away, or often only a few hundreds of yards, can work quite well. The farmer who lives at an height over 700 feet above sea-level will quite understand all this, but the more fortunate man who lives four miles off will probably not. That cannot be helped, but just let him have a try himself at tillage farming anywhere above 700 feet up.

Many people will ask: Why till land at this altitude? But you must remember that the Department and their steam-roller are behind.—Yours, etc.,

R.D.S. LECTURES FOR JUVENILES

ATOMS AND ELECTRONS.

The last of this year's R.D.S. series of lectures adapted to a juvenile auditory was delivered in the Lecture Theatre, Leinster House, yesterday afternoon. Dr. Kennedy, in a second lecture on the nature of electricity, explained how the conductivity of gases produced by X-rays put an end to the idea of the atom as the ultimate indivisible constituent of matter, and directed attention to the study of the atom itself. He showed how the electric charge carried by the constituents of the atom had been measured, and that the knowledge of the size and mass of the constituents has been derived from the study of the electric discharge through rarefied gases. The lecturer gave a demonstration of the changes in the discharge in a tube as the air was pumped out until finally the audience were able to see the X-rays. The properties of the cathode stream were explained, and the beautiful effects produced by its power of rendering certain substances luminous were exhibited. The study of the cathode rays revealed the existence of the negative electron, whose mass is less than one-thousandth part of the mass of the lightest atom. The ubiquity of the electron was discussed, and its appearance as a constituent of every kind of atom. The properties of radium were described, and the light that all the new knowledge has thrown on the nature of electricity and on the structure of the atoms of matter, now considered not indivisible, but as forming miniature solar systems.

THE BRITISH RED CROSS SOCIETY.

SWORDS DISTRICT BRANCH.

Under the presidency of Lady Talbot de Malahide, a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Swords Branch of the British Red Cross Society was held at Malahide Castle on Wednesday, the following departments of work being represented:—Kilsallaghan, Malahide, Glasnevin and Santry, Portmarnock and Swords Sub-Branches, the Malahide V.A.D. (No. 4 Dublin County), the Malahide, I.W.H.S. Depôt (Women's Section), the Malahide Motor Cushion Depôt, and the Swords Red Cross Carpentry Class. Apologies for non-attendance were received from the representatives of the Sub-Branches of Donabate and St. Doulagh's, also from the Chairman of the Malahide W.H.S.D. (Men's Section).

In opening the proceedings, Lady Talbot spoke as follows:—"It is delightful to be able to welcome all the workers of the Swords District here to-day, after more than four years of activity, and we rejoice to be able to relax our efforts in aid of workrooms and depôts now that peace is in sight and the war clouds are clearing away. May I say that the success of our work parties and depôts has been entirely due to the untiring zeal and devotion of our Vice-Presidents, Secretaries, and Organisers in this district. In Malahide special recognition is due to the following:—Mrs. Lindsay, for her work parties started on the outbreak of war; to Miss Gillespie, who organised the local W.H.S.D. with great success; to Miss E. Bates, who administered its funds; to Mr. Franks, Chairman, Mr. Hall and Mr. Crowley, Hon. Secretary and Treasurer respectively of the Men's Section of the Local W.H.S.D., which has been such a consolation and success. We must speak also of our splendid V.A.D., originally started by Mrs. Franks, and later carried on by the present able commandant, Miss Franks, with the help of Miss Ahern, Quartermaster; Miss Pilkington, Lady Superintendent; Mrs. Groves, Assistant Quartermaster; and Dr. Groves, Medical Officer, to whom many thanks are due for his untiring help and assistance. We must also remember the Swords Red Cross Factory Class, representative here to-day by the Hon. Secretary; the excellent work parties carried on by Mrs. Pue and Mrs. H. M. Eustace in Glasnevin and Santry; by Mrs. Swiney, Miss Hely-Hutchinson, and Miss M. Dawson, in Swords and Clonfran; by Mrs. Plunkett and Mrs. Maunsell in Portmarnock; by Mrs. Blake Redington in Portrane; by Mrs. de Courcy Mills and Mrs. Hansock at Donabate (this work was initiated on the suggestion of the Rev. W. Mazgill, P.P.); by Mrs. Cosgrave at Kilsallaghan; and by Mrs. Craigie and St. Margaret Ross. Mention must also be made of the remarkable amount of clothing, materials, and hospital comforts supplied by Major and Mrs. Cusack, and by Mrs. Hone, of Dunsink Park. To their names I must add that of Miss Draper-Newman, our Central Secretary, whose help has been invaluable to me. I feel more proud than I can say of the noble work carried out in my special district, and of the kindly, generous, and harmonious feeling of all those concerned in this Red Cross work." (Applause.)

Routine business having been transacted, the report and accounts for 1918 were presented. It was stated that 5,894 articles had been sent to the Central Committee's depôts and material to 64 and 40 Merrion square; 15,800 articles, including 317 mouse cushions, from the Women's Section I.W.H.S.D. to the latter address; and a large number of hospital requisites from the Men's Section, Malahide and Swords. It was reported that the Malahide V.A.D. had carried off the Challenge Shield presented by Mrs. Lane and Mrs. Cooke for the best-drilled and turned-out Red Cross Detachment, and that the team had won for the second year the County Dublin R.R.C.S. Challenge Cup presented by Lady Talbot de Malahide. This Detachment is also specially responsible for the endowment of a bed in the Duke of Connaught's Hospital, Dublin, for Limbless Soldiers. It was also stated that Mrs. and the late Mr. Wilson had kindly lent spacious premises in St. James's terrace to the Swords Depôt. The sum of £940 11/3 had been raised during the year, of which £493 9/3 was sent to the County Branch, grants amounting to £115 12/- being made to the local W.H.S. Depôts. The balance of 446 was sent in to the "Our Day" Fund, and part of the sum necessary to endow the bed in the Limbless Soldiers' Hospital. The 1918 annual subscription to cover £1,188.

The adoption of the report and statement of accounts having been proposed by Mr. Pack Chenevix, and seconded by Mr. Hall, was carried unanimously.

LARGE GALVANISED CORN AND HAY SHEDS,
HUNTSTOWN, FINGLAS, CO. DUBLIN,
ONLY 5 MILES FROM THE CITY.

P. O'CONNOR and SON are favoured with instructions from F. Gill, Esq., to SELL BY AUCTION, at their Estate Salerooms, 49 Queen street, Dublin, on THURSDAY, 30th JANUARY, 1919, at 1.30 o'clock, all his Interest and Goodwill in the lands of Huntstown, together with Residence and Outoffices, containing in all 308 Statute acres, purchased under the Land Act of 1903, subject to the very moderate annuity of £227 10/-, of which just 10 years have been paid, and also to the small portion of land adjoining known as Coldwinter, containing nearly 12 Statute acres, subject to the judicial rent of £12 11/- per annum.

DESCRIPTIVE PARTICULARS.

The Residence is modern, and in perfect order, approached by avenues from two roads, with gate lodges at entrances. With the exception of about 23 acres of tillage, the land, inclusive of most promising first crop meadows, is all under grass of prime fattening quality, well watered and fenced, and divided into nice sized fields. The out-offices, though large and extensive, are at the same time inexpensive to maintain, and are in splendid order, and most suitable to the requirements of the property.

The handsome and commodious residence is prettily situated, within convenient distance to the meets of the Ward and Meath Hounds, and at the same time within easy access of the City of Dublin. Having regard to the extremely moderate permanent annuity, a little less than 15/- per Statute acre, its eminent suitability from the richness of its limestone soil for stud farm or other purposes, and the frontage and out-buildings requiring no outlay, it is one of the most attractive and desirable residential farms that has been offered for Sale in recent years.
